Bryan Bartlett

Director of Information Technology

Bryan Bartlett is our Director of Information Technology and joined On-Target in 2001, bringing extensive computer systems and networking support experience. Bryan defines the technology strategy, structure, goal, objectives and measurements in line with the business plan that will drive the company's overall performance. He also manages the full utilization of existing technology and the implementation of new technology that will enhance performance by reducing cycle time, improving quality and expanding capacity.

Bryan studied business and computer science at both Bob Jones University and Independent Baptist College.
